

Payson Hall Biography

Payson Hall is 25 year veteran of project management and founding member of Catalysis Group, Inc. Formally trained as a software engineer, Payson has completed a variety of hardware and software systems integration projects in both the public and private sectors throughout North America and Europe during his professional career. His clients have included the State of California, Hewlett Packard, Motorola, IBM, Agilent, Citibank, the State of New York, the Defense Communications Agency, and a number of smaller public and private sector organizations.

He is a valued member of many project consulting and project review teams because of his combination of IT project management experience, problem solving skills and communication ability. He has taught project management seminars attended by over 5000 people during the past 15 years. He is a popular conference speaker on topics of systems integration, project management, and risk management and has published over 60 project management articles in publications as diverse as PM Network, Computerworld, The Cutter IT Journal, and the Journal of the Institute of Chartered Financial Analysts of India.